By happenstance, the January 1 issue of SCIENCE, (copy attached) the magazine of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, was almost solidly power and other peacetime applications of atomic energy. We had been working with the AAAS on this issue for some time and it landed at this particular hour. SCIENCE circulates more widely than any other technical journal among the scientists of the United States and other countries. It was impossible to get anything into this issue about the action of the AAAS Council endorsing the A-bank proposal but it will be noted in a subsequent issue.
